● How Long Does Driver's Ed Take?

In order to meet state requirements, a California Driver's Ed course must last a minimum of 30 hours. Fortunately, students are no longer expected to sit in a classroom to complete a course. Taking it online means you can pick and choose when and where you work to meet this 30-hour requirement.

● Benefits of Online vs. Classroom

Between school, friends, and hobbies, teens have very busy lives. Fitting 30 hours of driver's education into that schedule can be difficult, which is why California Driver's Ed online is an excellent choice for teens. You will have the luxury of starting and stopping this online course as often as necessary to fit the coursework into your busy day. Unlike a classroom course where students are expected to listen to tedious lectures and read from boring textbooks, this online course includes high-tech features, like 3-D graphics, animations, and videos — all designed to improve retention and make driver's education more fun!

● Valuable Safety Topics Covered in Driver's Ed

An online California Driver's Ed course is designed to prepare a teen driver for their upcoming permit test. But the content is much more than test preparation, it's an invaluable tool designed to educate a teen on safe driving tips and other essential information that will make them smart, confident drivers.

Some of the safe-driving topics covered include:

- ▶ Dangers of drinking and driving
- ▶ Emergency vehicles and responses
- ▶ Sharing the roads
- ▶ Rules and safe-driving practices

Parent-Teen Driving Contract and Parent's Role

Parents have a responsibility to set a good example for their teens. This can be done by exhibiting good driving behaviors and habits every time you're in the car with your teen. As a teenager prepares to take the wheel on their own, it's important for them to understand their parent's driving rules and expectations.

A Parent-Teen driving contract is an excellent way for everyone in the family to have a clear understanding of the rules and consequences associated with driving. Parents and teens should sign the contract and mutually agree to the terms to ensure that everyone knows what's expected.

Course Completion and Permit Application Process

At the end of your California Driver's Ed online course, you'll be faced with a 30-question final exam. But don't worry, you'll have unlimited retake opportunities in order to earn a passing score of 80%.
